ALLIED FLEET 'COVERS' DRIVE IN TUNISIA

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE
Two very grimy, hungry little English sparrows, pecking laboriously at bits of food encased in the ice-coated street in front of the Record-Herald office, inspired this little yarn.
I wondered what I was going to write for this column, and stepped to the window "to give it a good think," as Elmer Tuggle would say, when I spied the two sparrows.
The mercury was hovering a few degrees above zero, and instantly I had the thought that I am going to convey to you.
What do you suppose it is?
There! I knew you would guess it!
It is, "Feed the birds during the cold, snowy weather."
Try placing some food where they can reach it. There are many kinds of food they will eat and thrive upon during this cold weather.
I know of several persons who keep food exposed regularly for the birds, and in this way they have saved a great many of the friendly little members of the feathered tribe from starving.
Let's show our appreciation for the birds they sing to us throughout most of the year, and the destructive insects they devour about our premises, by giving food to the birds during the cold winter months.

Some of you older folks remember H. H. Whelpley and his famous Kid Band that played Washington C. H. on the map years ago.
Not only did he organize and direct the band, but he was active in many other local musical circles for a great many years. He loved music and did a great deal to keep the musical spirit alive in the community.
Then a great many more of you folks knew his son, James H. Whelpley, and how he loved music and worked tirelessly to organize and keep the Washington Band together for a great many years.
Jim, like his father, had a most likeable personality, and devoted all of his spare time to music. He was an excellent pianist and played several of the band instruments when occasion demanded.
Jim also composed a number of meritorious marches and other band selections.
This leads up to what I started out to say in the first place, and that is:
Mrs. Ralph Gage, daughter of Jim, is one of the busiest women in the community, and all because she inherited the gift of music from her musical ancestors. It just runs in the family.
Marion has played the piano ever since she could reach the keyboard. Later she added the pipe organ to her instruments, and her playing has given pleasure to hosts of people.
At the present time she is organist at the First Presbyterian Church, has some 65 piano students, finds time to keep up her music in the Cecilia Music Club and play for a variety of other events. If that would not keep anyone busy, then I'm all wrong about it.

GERMANY BLASTED ONCE MORE BY RAF

Frankfurt One of Several Targets in Night Attack
LONDON, Dec. 3.—(P)—The RAF, renewing its night assaults on the Reich after a lapse of 10 days, struck last night at Frankfurt and several other objectives in western Germany, the Air Ministry announced today.
Six aircraft were lost in the assault, said the announcement, which gave no indication of the size of the raiding force.
(Estimating that the losses were six percent, however—a figure frequently used as an index in the past—this would mean that a force of about 120 bombers was employed.)
The Berlin radio referred to the raids—the first on Germany by night since the attack on Stuttgart, November 22—as "nuisance raids."

OHIOANS SHIVER WITH NO LET-UP IN COLD WAVE

Mercury Tumbles to Zero But High Wind Subsides During the Night
FIRE ALARMS ON INCREASE
At Least 18 Lives Lost, Most Of Them in Lake Erie When Tug Sinks in Storm

(By The Associated Press)
A bitter cold wave that shoved the mercury to zero in some areas gripped Ohio today, and no appreciable letup was in sight. At least 18 deaths were attributed to the blast that rode in yesterday on a 35-mile wind.
The Columbus Weather Bureau said in its morning forecast that it would not be quite so cold today and tonight. Winds had diminished greatly.
Springfield recorded zero, while it was two above at Bucyrus, four above at Columbus, and five at Toledo and seven at Cincinnati. A reading of nine set a new all-time low for December 3 at Cleveland.
Akron had seven and work-bounded thousands over-taxed public transportation and many were forced to stand in the cold 30 or 40 minutes before being picked up.
An overheated stove set fire to a home near Warren and the wind-swept flames killed Marilyn Uber 10, her brother, William, 16, and their uncle, Benjamin Uber, 46.
Fourteen crew members of the tug "Admiral" were drowned in Lake Erie, 12 miles northwest of Cleveland, yesterday, and officials said they believed a heavy wave caused the tug to go under. The fifteen victim was Fred Grady, 55, of Pittsburgh, whose frozen body was found along the highway near Ironton.
A light snow that fell throughout the state caused many traffic accidents and left scores injured from falls on slippery streets and sidewalks. Columbus, alone, reported 10 hospital cases.
The temperatures provided a stern test for war-busy municipal transportation systems as motorists left automobiles in their garages and rode to work on public conveyances.
Fires, too, exacted a heavy toll of damage as Ohioans stoked their furnaces with a little extra zeal. Most serious loss from fire occurred at New London last night where an overheated furnace was blamed for a blaze which swept through the community's main business block, destroying at least four buildings, damaging others and routing at least five persons from their homes. Property loss was estimated at $50,000. Marshal Kenneth Murr said the fire started in living quarters at the rear of a barber shop, destroyed the shop and three two-story frame structures and forced residents out of two nearby apartments.
Snow made highways slippery and treacherous, but the State Highway Department, deviating from practices of former years, left the icy blankets on the roadways and concentrated on clearing off roads to army depots and war factories.
Some snow plows were active on state roads, but orders went

ALLIED SUPPLY LINE ADVANCING

These British Army supply trucks crawling over the desert sands somewhere in Libya would never dare proceed in such a compact string as this if it were not for a vast protective umbrella of American and British planes above them. Japs Balked Again In Attempt To Aid New Guinea Force

By C. YATES McDANIEL
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Dec. 3.—(P)—General Douglas MacArthur's air forces supporting ground troops closing in on the Buna-Gona area on the New Guinea coast have smashed new Japanese attempts to land reinforcements in a 12-hour running battle with four Japanese destroyers and their screen of fighter planes.
The Allied planes knocked 23 enemy fighters out of the air as they carried the attack to sea, forcing the destroyers to withdraw without materially aiding their hard-pressed forces on the shallow beachhead ringed by Allied ground troops.
The planes also kept up low level attacks on Japanese ground positions between Buna and Gona.
Brief reports from Allied airmen described the night fight in the air and at sea as "a great fireworks display with enemy warships shooting rockets to illuminate the Allied aircraft."
The Allied ground troops meanwhile drove directly through to the beach on the northern end of the front and penetrated to the outskirts of Buna village on the southern flank.
Resistance by the Japanese was fierce.
Near Gona, an Australian unit captured a Japanese command post, killing 34 in a close quarter scrap. At this position the Australians captured 40 Bren light machine-guns, which may have been some of the booty taken from the British at Singapore.
BATTLE IN SOLOMONS
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(P)—Marine patrols attacking enemy forces on Guadalcanal have wiped out another 55 Japanese in the Solomon Islands and captured a quantity of arms and ammunition, the Navy announced today.
Daylight attacks by Army and Navy aircraft continued to harass enemy positions on the island.
An attack by marines on a patrol of 60 Japanese near the upper Lunga River ended in killing 35 of the enemy and capture of some arms and ammunition. In another patrol encounter in the Matanikau River area 20 additional Japanese were killed.

WAR COUNCIL URGED BY HERBERT HOOVER

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(P)—Experience in every major nation in this war and the last shows there should be a war council of head administrators sitting directly with the President, Herbert Hoover told the National Association of Manufacturers today.
"There was a war council or a war cabinet in every principal nation in the last war. There is one in every principal nation in this war, except the United States."

Late Bulletins

UNIDENTIFIED SHIPS REPORTED OFF CALIFORNIA
SAN FRANCISCO—The 12th Navy District said today that "a large number of unidentified surface vessels" had been reported 450 miles off the California coast, but that a thorough search of the area "failed to confirm their presence." A radio broadcast early today ordered all fleet personnel in the San Francisco area to report to their ships at once.
LIBERIA GRANTS U. S. ALL RIGHTS FOR DURATION
WASHINGTON—Liberia has granted the United States air base rights for the duration of the war and American troops, principally Negro units, are stationed already in that strategic West African republic.
REDS HEAR HITLER PLANNING TO TAKE OVER ITALY
MOSCOW—Tass, the official Soviet news agency, reported today in a dispatch datelined Stockholm that in a recent council of war at Adolf Hitler's headquarters Heinrich Himmler, chief of the Gestapo, had urged complete German occupation of Italy.

Crucial Battle Believed Well Underway in North Africa Now

Britain's powerful Mediterranean fleet was reported "covering" the Allied advance in Tunisia today while the London Admiralty announced the destruction of four more enemy merchant ships and two destroyers en route to North Africa with reinforcements for the hard-pressed Axis garrisons at Tunis and Bizerte.
U. S. heavy bombers were officially credited with destroying or crippling six other Axis merchant ships at Tripoli, the enemy's only remaining harbor in Libya.
An Italian version of the sea battle off the Tunisian coast Tuesday night acknowledged the sinking of a fascist destroyer and declared a British cruiser was blown up and a light unit sunk in "a brief but violent encounter."
The British listed the loss of one destroyer, sunk by Axis air attack after a British force of three cruisers and two destroyers had broken up the convoy with its sorely needed fresh strength for the Axis in Tunisia.
Simultaneous announcements in London and Washington disclosed the loss of 11 Allied warships and five U. S. naval transports during the AEF-led landings in North Africa near a month ago. A navy spokesman said the casualties were very small.
In London, H. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, told parliament these losses were much smaller than had been expected, considering the magnitude of the operation, and "far less than the enemy claimed."

ALL FARM POLICIES TO BE REEXAMINED

Administration Costs Too High, Says Congressman
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(P)—Re-examination of all the nation's agricultural policies in the light of war demands for food was advocated today by chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the senate agriculture appropriations subcommittee.
Russell also told an interviewer the department of agriculture must soon "submit a more economical plan of administration, since the cost of administering the AAA and conservation programs has been entirely too high."
"Where there is a possibility of a shortage in a farm commodity," Russell declared, "there should be no restrictions on production."
Senator Thomas (D-Okl.) said there was "substantial sentiment" for "turning farmers loose to produce all the commodities they can for use now and for storage for the future."

AFL-CIO UNITY PLAN FACING FIRST TEST

Showdown To Come at Kaiser Shipyards, Belief
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(P)—The AFL-CIO plan of "practical cooperation," agreed to as a step toward total unity, will get its first test immediately in the Kaiser shipyards dispute.
The plan, decided on yesterday by leaders of America's two major labor movements, provides for arbitration of jurisdictional differences which cannot be solved by the unions themselves. The agreement is subject to approval of the AFL and CIO executive boards, but unity negotiations will go forward meanwhile.
President Roosevelt, it was learned, has intervened to prevent a prospective knock-out, drag-out fight which finds the National Labor Relations Board in the middle.
LIBERTY BOAT CAPSIZES WITH LOSS OF 5 OF CREW
NEWPORT, R. I., Dec. 3.—(P)—Five sailors were known dead, 10 others were missing and two were safe today after their 28-foot Liberty boat capsized in rough water in Narragansett bay early yesterday while returning the men from shore leave.

FINDLAY, Dec. 3.—(P)—An auto-truck collision here killed Elmer J. Cole, 76, retired farmer, and Fred Johnson, 30, both of Findlay.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(P)—Tom Mercer Girdler, 65, of Cleveland, steel and aircraft executive, and Miss Helen R. Brennan, 36, of New York City, who was once his secretary, were married yesterday.
The marriage, Girdler's fourth, came five days after he and the former Lillian C. Snowden, of Maryland, whom he married in 1924, were divorced in Reno.
Girdler is chairman of the boards of Republic Steel Corporation, consolidated Aircraft Corporation and Vultee Aircraft, Inc.

Italian Cities Being Evacuated As Growing Fear Grips Mussolini

LONDON, Dec. 3.—(P)—Reuters said today that the Rome radio broadcast an appeal by Premier Mussolini to all Italian mayors to "get to work with a minimum of red tape on the evacuation of Italian cities."

More Food Rationing Looms, Wickard Hints

CONGRESSMEN LAUNCH DRIVE TO TAKE OVER SOME POWERS NOW HELD BY THE PRESIDENT
U. S. RESOURCES NOT BOUNDLESS, PEOPLE WARNED
Production Goals Are Raised And Tentative Figures Set for Next Year
CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(P)—Secretary Wickard declared today "I for one have no intention and no wish to fasten government controls in perpetuity upon the food industry."
"On the other hand, those who have the responsibility for the government's wartime food program should be prepared to take prompt action whenever action is necessary," the secretary of agriculture declared in an address prepared for a regional meeting on 1943 food goals.
"Already in this war I have seen the consequences of delay and wishful thinking too many times," he continued. "If reservation orders or rationing are necessary for food commodities, these orders should be put into effect without delay."
"The history of this war is that the situations grow worse instead of better and that every day of delay is extremely costly to all concerned."
There is some fear, he continued, that government power over food would mean radical changes in distribution and marketing. He added:
"By and large I think the food industry is well organized and efficient and, for these reasons, it should be interfered with as little as possible in the execution of a wartime food program."
Wickard estimated at least 25 percent of the total 1943 American food output would go to meet military and lend-lease needs. War needs took about 13 percent of the 1942 yield.
"Our task grows larger month

Farm Parity Headed for Redefinition

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(P)—The house by unanimous consent today passed legislation redefining agricultural parity to include the costs of all farm labor, a step against which President Roosevelt expressed "unalterable opposition" when anti-inflation proposals were before congress two months ago.
At the time parity redefinition was debated in the anti-inflation fight, one government office contended this might result in an increase in living costs of as much as $3,500,000,000 a year.
Rep. Pace (D-Ga.), author of the measure, told the house he did not know what effects it might have on living costs.
The legislation now goes to the senate.

NOTED FLIER HUNTED IN GULF OF MEXICO

Boyd 'Buzz' Wagner Missing On Routine Flight
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(P)—Army fliers scanned the waters and coast line of the Gulf of Mexico today for their "one-man aerial blitz," Boyd D. (Buzz) Wagner, first American ace of World War II, missing four days on a routine flight.
Wagner, one of the army's youngest lieutenant colonels, took off from an army air base in Florida for Maxwell Field, Ala., and has been unreported since, the war department announced last night.
The air forces credit him with destroying between 30 and 50 enemy planes in the air and on the ground.

SHORTAGE OF LABOR TO GET WORSE, TIP

McNutt Tells Management Cooperation Essential
NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(P)—Failure by industrial management to do its part in mobilizing manpower would lead directly to the exercise of compulsion on an unnecessarily wide scale, Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the Manpower Commission, told the wartime meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers today.
"This is not a threat," McNutt said, "but a statement of fact..." based on the existence of an armed force totaling 6,000,000 at present and scheduled to rise to 9,700,000 by the end of 1943.
"Each of you," McNutt told the manufacturers, "will lose just about as many men during 1943 as you have hitherto lost altogether. Moreover, replacements are going to be harder to get. We will be fortunate if 500,000 more people can be squeezed out of the present pool of 1½ million unemployed."

AKRON, Dec. 3.—(P)—Patrolman Hugh Allerdice, 45, was in fair condition in City Hospital today, suffering from injuries received when a man he tried to arrest seized the officer's club and beat him into unconsciousness. PRECIPITATION FOR PAST MONTH IS FOUR INCHES

November Weather Somewhat Hectic but Temperature Average Normal

From the standpoint of unusual weather, November was a hectic month, but it finally finished up with a mean temperature right at normal, according to the summary just completed by U. S. Observer Stanley D. Mark.

There was everything from a series of dense fogs, thunder-showers and excess rainfall to high winds and snowfall.

The number of fogs was very unusual, and these were scattered over much of the middle part of the month.

High winds were recorded two or three times, and a two inch snowfall occurred on the 29.

Precipitation reached four inches, compared with a normal of 2.27 inches, compared with 1.15 inches in November last year, and 3.26 inches in November, 1940.

However the excess rainfall helped reduce the deficit so far this year.

Two thunderstorms on different dates were recorded, with the most severe on the 10.

Heaviest rainfall during the month, in any 24 hour period, reached .76 of an inch on the 10th.

Average maximum temperature was 52 degrees and the average minimum was 33.1 degrees, with the mean temperature 42.5 degrees compared with 42.8 normal.

In November, 1941, the mean temperature was 43.2 and in 1940 it was 40.1 degrees.

Black Book Report On Fayette County

TAX VALUATION AND DELINQUENCY

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Ohio Chamber of Commerce, research department, has made a comprehensive survey of the conduct of official business and financial affairs of Fayette County and presented it at a public meeting in the form of "black book" report. The investigations were made by William R. Evans of the Chamber with other counties of similar size. The report is being presented to the readers of the Record-Herald day by day and department by department in the hope that it will give the residents and taxpayers a better understanding of how the business of their county is being conducted and, thus, stimulate their interest in better and more efficient government. The report is marked by commendation for the county's officials, but it also contains suggestions and recommendations for further improvement. The report will be published as it was presented and without comment.)

The total real, public utility, and tangible and intangible personal property valuation in Fayette County, taken from the 1941 abstract, amounted to $30,611,128.92. This is a net increase of $282,563.17 over the 1940 valuation as shown by the following:

Class of Property	1940	1941	Difference
Real and Public Utility	$26,660,910.00	$26,880,930.00	$220,020.00
Tangible Personal	2,650,577.00	2,797,419.00	146,842.00
Intangible Personal
(Classified)	1,017,078.75	932,779.92	- 84,298.83
Total	$30,328,565.75	$30,611,128.92	$282,563.17

* Plus. - Minus.

The decrease in intangible personal (classified) property was more than offset by the increase in real, public utility and tangible personal property.

Of the total real and public utility valuation, $18,440,300.00 or 68.6 percent was on rural property, and $8,440,630.00 or 31.4 percent on urban property. The urban properties include all those located within corporation limits. The value of real and public utility property within the City of Washington Court House was $7,482,650.00 or 27.84 percent of the total.

Delinquency

The total delinquency as of January 1, 1942, was $33,901.18. This consisted of $26,808.96 on real and public utility property, $6,673.52 on tangible personal property and $418.70 on intangible personal (classified) property.

The total delinquency on real and public utility property was nearly evenly divided between rural and urban. This means that urban (city) property had nearly twice as large a percentage of delinquency as the rural property; the delinquency on urban (city) property being .15 of 1 percent of the urban valuation compared to less than .08 of 1 percent for delinquencies on rural property in relation to the rural valuation. Delinquencies on real and public utility property in the City of Washington C. H. amounted to $11,796.54 which is 44 percent of the total delinquency on real and public utility property in the county.

The delinquencies of $26,808.96 on real and public utility represent only a one-mill tax levy. This is the lowest percentage of all county in the state having a similar tax duplicate, as shown by the following table:

County	Valuation	Delinquency	Millage Represented
Lawrence	$28,688,530.00	$520,128.00	18.13
Wyandot	28,381,780.00	35,156.00	1.23
Guernsey	28,320,325.00	215,155.00	7.60
Coshocton	28,257,210.00	40,904.00	1.45
Fayette	26,880,930.00	26,808.96	1.00
Clinton	25,498,630.00	28,640.00	1.12
Madison	25,061,930.00	32,712.00	1.31
Clement	24,307,200.00	99,372.00	4.09
Geauga	22,636,280.00	189,939.00	8.39

Delinquencies on real and public utility property in Fayette County were decreased each year over the past five years as noted by the following:

Year	Valuation	Delinquency	Millage Represented
1937	$26,491,010.00	$53,919.46	2.04
1938	26,294,970.00	39,270.89	1.49
1939	26,494,740.00	29,904.88	1.19
1940	26,660,910.00	28,148.32	1.06
1941	26,880,930.00	26,808.96	1.00

Fayette County officials have been energetic in their efforts to collect both current and delinquent taxes and must be commended for the relatively small amount of delinquency.

The delinquent real and personal property tax lists have been advertised and certified to the prosecuting attorney each year as required by law and forfeited land sales have been held as required; the last sales being held in 1939 and 1940.

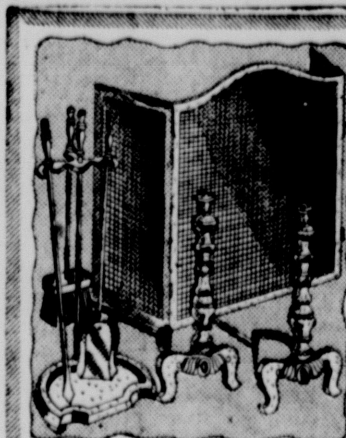

Tax Rate

The 1941 tax rate which is being collected in 1942 for Washington C. H. Corporation, totals 16.40 mills. This is a decrease of .20 of a mill under the 1940 tax rate and is slightly below the average of other cities of similar population, as shown by the following table:

City	Population	County Rate	Total Rate
Defiance	9,744	3.00 Mills	20.60 Mills
Bucyrus, (Bucyrus Twp.)	9,727	2.20 Mills	17.20 Mills
Dover	9,691	2.80 Mills	16.00 Mills
Washington C. H.	9,402	3.55 Mills	16.40 Mills
Conneaut	9,355	2.52 Mills	14.00 Mills
Van Wert	9,927	2.50 Mills	17.90 Mills
Delaware	8,944	3.30 Mills	17.00 Mills

Of the total levy of 16.40 mills, the schools receive 8.40 mills, approximately 51.2 percent, while the county receives 3.55 mills, which is the highest of any county rate shown in the above table.

SAVINGS DRIVE ON PAYROLLS

The Treasury Department has launched a renewed drive through which, by New Year's, it hopes to have a full tenth of the nation's payroll going into war bonds without ever reaching the workers' pockets.

In order to achieve that goal, it will be necessary to sign up 8,000,000 workers who at present are not buying bonds on the payroll allotment plan. Then it will be necessary to persuade another 22,000,000 workers to boost their bond deductions by an average of 25 percent.

This statement of the situation, which comes from the Treasury Department's war savings staff, can be rearranged a bit so as to give us a peep-hole view of how American workers on the whole have responded to the 10 percent deduction appeal.

There will be about 30,000,000 workers, as of the anniversary of Pearl Harbor, who should be averaging 10 percent of their salaries to help whip Hitler.

Apparently one out of every four is not enrolled in the payroll plan at all. Probably some of these laggards are buying some bonds. But we'll wager an over-length cigar that mighty few who aren't signed up on the payroll are putting 10 percent of their wages into bonds.

One out of every four workmen isn't helping at all, and the other three aren't averaging a 10 percent deduction, but only 8 percent.

If workers were averaging 10 percent of their wages in war bonds, the Treasury would be taking in $500,000,000 a month that way. As it is, only $300,000,000 a month is coming from workers' investments.

Obviously, there are workers who cannot possibly put 10 cents out of every salary dollar into war bonds, and support their families, and pay their taxes next year. But these are exceptions, and if everybody did what he was able to do, the ones who really cannot make the grade would be more than offset by those who voluntarily are doing more than their share.

On the sole basis of patriotism, of desire to help save this country and democracy in general, of the will to beat Hitler and Japanism, we commend the Treasury's drive to every loyal American.

If that isn't enough, then let's talk plain selfishness.

Can you tell us where we can get as large a return, with reasonable safety, as from our government's war bonds?

Would you prefer a program of mandatory enforced saving, to provide the government with the money it must have, or will you invest voluntarily?

How much fun do you think you

HOURS AND MANPOWER

The average work week in American industry, much of which is devoted to the war, now is 43 hours. There is strong resistance to increase this in many industries. Overtime pay penalties, which were installed to force short work weeks upon industry while we had millions of unemployed, are retained.

The average work week in Britain is 56 hours. Now that is something. But Germans have to work 60 hours a week, notwithstanding the slave labor they have imported from conquered nations. And the Russians, who really know what war is all about, are working 66 hours a week.

What are we going to do about it?

Washington at a Glance

By Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON — The betting isn't much better than 50-50 that the speaker of the incoming congress' house of representatives won't be a Republican. It's a little better than that but no cinch, either.

As officially tagged, the Democratic legislators will number 222. The Republicans will have 209. There also will be two Progressives, a Farmer-Laborite and an American Labor Party member. The G. O. P. won't annex the last named of this quartet of independents, but it's conceivable that they'll manage to scoop in the other three for voting purposes.

That still will leave them a bit shy of a majority, but the question arises—

What about something like 20 to 30 anti-New Deal Democrats? These Democratic New Deal opponents verge on being more anti-administration than the average Republican. The G. O. P. won't get the entire bloc of them, but it will get a handful, to a certainty. And the Republicans will stick together.

Summing it all up, gambling on the next congressional speaker is no 100 percent proposition.

The same thing happened once before, back in the days of the 65th congress, when Champ Clark, a minority Democrat and father of the present Senator Bennett Champ Clark, won the speakership in the face of a Republican plurality. That wasn't due to G. O. P. defections, though. The margin between the two big parties was even tighter then than it is now, and Champ copped the votes of nine independents.

The choice of a speaker doesn't so much matter but it's important to the individual.

How It Could Happen

Today's essence of it is that old party lines have gone so completely all to hades. It isn't the independents who may swing the ballot's result; it's the majority—by flopping over to the minority.

Scarcely needful to state, Congressman Joe Martin, just retiring as chairman of his party's national committee, to enable him to concentrate more intensively upon his congressionally representative leadership, will be the G. O. P.'s candidate for the speakership's chair.

This will make him primarily it's 1944 presidential candidate. If he should win, or come pretty close to winning, there may be no further discussion. Wendell Willkie and all other possibilities mentioned probably will fade out of the picture. The speakership is a kind of a sentimental stunt. Only one vote goes with it. The incumbent hasn't any time for formal speechmaking. And yet, he's "it," somehow.

It's a niche Joe Martin is admirably adapted to occupying. Yet, even if he does not get it, he is still in the presidential procession.

As a candidate, he has all sorts of qualifications.

Plenty of Pep

He has "pep," which most of the others are rather lacking in. Joe is a good mixture of agriculture and urban industry. He is quite an internationalist. He's a middling liberal, but not a "bug" on the subject. Taking him all around, he is a compromise.

Now, whether in 1944, a compromise is going to be acceptable is a question.

I've heard it suggested that we will not have an election in that year. The theory is that we may just lap over without one. If so, of course our system of government is done for. I don't think it'll occur, though.

My guess is on two presidential candidates.

Franklin D. Roosevelt as one of them, for a fourth term, in all probability, if the war is still going—

Versus, maybe, Wendell Willkie, or somebody.

But this leaves the opposition guy.

Joe Martin? He'll be logical.

Need 2,500,000 Pints for War Blood Banks

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE ARMY and Navy require 2,500,000 pints of blood for the armed forces during the next 12 months. This blood will be stored in "banks," or blood plasma banks, and will be placed in centers so that it will be available for the treatment of shock in the wounded and injured.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

This has been called the largest medical undertaking in history by Dr. G. Canby Robinson, the able national director of the blood donor service. It is one of the most important war activities in which the civilian population is engaged; all of this blood is obtained from volunteer donors.

In Los Angeles a young man in a sailor's uniform walked into the Blood Donor's Center and asked to donate a pint of blood. Workers in the Center noticed a service star pinned on the sailor's uniform. In reply to a question it was found out that his name was Mel Van Kuren, a gunner's mate, first class, of the United States Navy. He had been wounded at Pearl Harbor and had received eight transfusions of plasma. On leave, he was visiting the Center to pay back the blood donations which he believed had saved his life.

Workers' Contributions

In Chicago 1,000 employees of a large mail order house donated one pint of blood each within a week. On the West Coast 40,000 members of one of the major labor unions pledged donations and 507 were bled in one day.

The A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. both have blood donor's honor rolls issued to all local unions and central centers where Red Cross blood banks have been established. Already the Red Cross has exceeded the 380,000 pints of blood requested for delivery by June 30th, last.

The Red Cross Centers have to be located in cities where there are processing laboratories to prepare the blood after it has been taken from the donor's arm. The Red Cross assures us that as laboratory capacity increases additional Centers will be added and nearly all of us who wish to can participate in these patriotic donations.

Embattled Love

BY LORENA CARLETON

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS: A chance meeting in the San Francisco fog leads to a spur-of-the-moment marriage in Reno by PAIGE SHELTON, whose sweetheart has just been killed fighting for the Allies, and RESTWICK (RUSTY) CARNES III, wealthy descendant of early Hawaiian settlers. Rusty marries to spite the girl he thinks he loves, EUGENIA NORTH, his selfish fiancée.

YESTERDAY: When told that Rusty and Paige are married, Eugenia declares that their situation "is not necessarily permanent."

CHAPTER SIX

RESTWICK CARNES' eyebrows merged completely when Eugenia, apparently unaffected by his news, that he had married Paige, turned and left his table. He watched her glide gracefully between others' chairs and rejoin her companion. Instantly she patted his glum cheek and just as instantly he beamed. She did not bother to turn and see if Rusty was watching. She knew that he was.

Paige heard the swizzle stick break in his hands. He gave a low groan of absolute despair. "What have I done? I'd like to go over and take her in my arms and kiss her again and again until—"

"Until she faints," Paige completed in a bored tone. "What have I done?" he said again, evidently pleased with the remark.

Crispily impatient the girl told him: "Counting the busted swizzle stick, you've drunk three double Scotch and sodas in 45 minutes—if you call that doing anything."

She eyed a look of acute dislike. He disregarded that subject to mourn, "Eugenia doesn't even care."

"The heck she doesn't! Just because she gave a couple of smiles bright as neon signs does not mean she isn't troubled and troubled plenty."

"But she seemed so calm and poised."

"As poised as a cymbal crash," Paige observed dryly. "Listen, you adoring and ardent fellow, don't be a schoolboy all your life. Eugenia saw the wedding ring, HER wedding ring, only it was on my finger. That prepared her for your statement. She was enough over the shock then to appear calm."

The man's face, though slightly befuddled, brightened. "Then you think she did care?"

"I told you she did," Paige said positively. As quickly she emitted a small spurt of rage. "Why do I have to keep repeating? Don't you know anything about women at all? You're old enough. You should. What's the matter with you, anyway? If ever I saw anyone who needs a guiding hand, it's you."

She subsided as quickly as she had started. "What about dinner?"

"You go to dinner. I believe I'll stay here a while," Restwick Carnes beckoned to a waiter.

When he scooted over Paige said, "Check, please!"

"Don't be so impetuous," ordered Rusty.

"Don't be so impetuous yourself," Rusty complained further. "But I want another drink."

"I know you do. And another. While you sit with an Edgar Allen Poe expression staring soulfully at your lost Eugenia. She tapped the bar-check with a long coral-tipped forefinger. "Pay it." While he fished for money, she continued in mock sweetness. "You know, if I were Eugenia and some man sat plying himself with drinks I'd be flattered. And, oh, so happy—in a disgraceful, perverted sort of way, of course."

Restwick Carnes gave her a grin that was boyish and friendly. "You're right. What a smarty you are. Remind me to raise your salary." He helped her with her coat and they started out of the cocktail lounge. "By the way, you must let me know if you need anything." They were going down the wide carpeted stairs. "After all, you are my legal wife."

"I don't need anything."

He inclined his head toward the lobby display window of the hotel jewelry store. "An engagement ring, maybe?"

"This wedding ring doesn't really need an engagement ring. If I want a ring," she said curtly, "I'll manage."

Mildly affronted, the man said, "I was just trying to be husbandly."

Paige said, "Perhaps you'd better not," and kept walking toward the elevators.

"How about that dinner?" Rusty then asked.

"I'll meet you here in the lobby in a half hour. I want to change." Rusty was giving her a wondering look. "I have a room here," the girl explained. "I was staying here. Shall I stay in my room or have my luggage sent to yours?"

Rather stiffly Rusty replied, "I believe we might be less conspicuous if you moved to my room."

The girl's smile was ironic. "I've never worried about being conspicuous. But I suppose when you are one of the Hawaiian Epidemic Carnes clan you have to worry about such things."

The ironic smile disappeared. "Don't too many drinks ever become conspicuous?" Before he could answer she said, "You'd better give me your room key." Rusty gloved as he handed her the key with a slashing movement. Paige murmured sweetly, "So glad it isn't a knife," and stepped into the elevator.

Thirty minutes later she came back down. Restwick Carnes, placidly patient, was sitting on a chair facing the elevators.

Paige said musically, "What a good boy you are to wait all this time."

His tone was one of utmost ennui. "I haven't been waiting here. There are other places to get a good Scotch and soda besides the hotel."

Indeed there were, decided Paige, at a little past 1 o'clock in the morning. But did he have to visit them all in one evening? Their dinner had been a scattered one. A quantitatively groaning, many-tiered table—smorgasbord—and swedish folk dancing, on to candied rose petals and hot coffee in a small Persian restaurant.

Only an hour before the city had seemed an exhilarating scherzo. Everything had moved swiftly and Paige had liked it. It left her less time to think. But now she was aching with fatigue. Her short dinner dress of shining black bugle beads seemed heavy as a suit of armor. For that matter, so did her dinner hat of weightless black tulle. It was a tiny cloud of a hat, the work of an inspired and expensive milliner.

"Would you mind," she asked Restwick Carnes, "if I went back to the hotel? I'm so tired."

Afterward she wondered why she had bothered to ask. Evident in his terse reply was proof that he didn't care if she had never accompanied him in the first place.

Paige did not know what time he came in. Light filtered into the bedroom from a small lamp in the living room. She watched him from semi-closed eyes. He tossed his hat and coat upon a chair, then went to the window and drew back the draperies. For a long time he stood motionless. Once he drew the back of his hand across his eyes, a savage gesture almost, then he was again motionless, staring up at the cloud-ridden sky.

Paige knew the thoughts tearing through his mind. They had been in hers only a few hours earlier when she had done the identical thing. She governed her breath and tried so hard to feign sleep that she actually fell asleep.

She awoke to experience that slow fright that grips a person when they glimpse strange surroundings. She looked at her watch, saw the wedding ring, and suddenly remembered.

The bed opposite hers was untouched. Softly she padded to the doorway and peeped into the living room. There was no sign of Restwick Carnes III. Perhaps he had gone. If he had, it was just as well the girl decided, with what amounted to a gasp of relief. Then she stiffened. Near the door of their private hallway was a stack of Rusty's luggage. Her bags were there also. She moved closer. They were labeled the same as his. Mr. and Mrs. Restwick Carnes. Mazatlan, Room 12.

Again she looked at her watch. It was almost 11. The boat sailed at noon. She dashed back into the bedroom and began scrambling into clothes suitable for travel. As she moved swiftly she thought, "I hope I have to hurry, hurry, hurry forever. I hope I never have a spare moment in which to think. And remember."

The door buzzer rang and a bell-boy handed her a flower box. Inside it were two orchids, enormous costly ones that looked as if they were made of purple and lavender velvet. They had strange bulbous centers of chartruse. They were the most exquisite orchids she had ever seen. She began searching for a card.

Dolores Peps Up Mexico's War Effort

By JEAN MEEGAN

NEW YORK—(AP)—Dolores Del Rio has pulled up stakes in Hollywood and is headed for Mexico in the interests of the war effort.

"I went home to Mexico on a holiday," the glamorous star tells it, "and I was appalled to find that there was no China relief, no Russian relief organized. I determined that there should be."

Steeped in Russian lore and culture ever since she made the picture "Resurrection" from Count Tolstoy's story, fifteen years ago, Miss Del Rio took a penetrating look into the situation and engaged the most conservative and elegant club in Mexico City for a swank Russian relief ball.

"Frankly, the enterprise looked impossible," Miss Del Rio recalls; chiefly because the two countries had been diplomatic strangers since 1930, "but I coaxed everyone important whom I knew to join forces with me and we put it over with a bang. Carlos Chavez, conductor of the Mexican symphonic orchestra and Miquee Cavarrubias, the great painter, were my special assistants."

"Everyone turned out for the party, the bankers, the old Mexican aristocracy, the intellectual, the liberals they all were there—the ice was broken."

Heartened by this initial philanthropic success the authentically beautiful Dolores whipped together a radio program, "Mexico at War" to bring the United States up to date on what goes on down there.

Now she has drawn a line through her Hollywood career and is moving to Mexico as national chairman of Russian war relief in that country.

If she stayed in the country she would be one of a thousand actresses passing out coffee in a canteen—"and that's worthwhile work, too," she says. But Dolores Del Rio can do more than that, and she knows it.

"For this project you need the strength of government, the wealth of society, and the resources of the artists, and I have friends in all three categories," she says.

She is not abandoning the movies completely, however. She is going to make pictures in Spanish for the South American trade.

"They haven't got much money down there for movie productions and the studios are bad but they make up for those deficiencies with imagination, talent, and very fine actors—particularly character actors."

By December 15, Miss Del Rio will be firmly installed in her mother's home in Mexico City. Her first duty will be to see that 1,000,000 vaccines are safely dispatched to New York. Thence to be relayed to Russia. "These vaccines would cost $250,000 in the United States and we are able to get them in Mexico for $20,000," the actress proudly relates.

"I am enjoying myself in this new role very much," she continued, "because everyone laughed at me and said I was miscast. I was never a club woman before in my life. When war was declared I gave a couple of parties to raise money for refugees and subsequently I helped in the Hollywood canteen but this I love."

Dinner-Bridge Club Met with Miss Opal Davids

Miss Opal Davids beautifully entertained her dinner-bridge club at her home on Rawling Street, Wednesday evening. Mrs. Lewis Overturf was a guest with the members.

A three-course dinner of delicious viands was served at the dining table, where covers were laid for eight. A wintry centerpiece was most unusual and greatly admired, with one long mirror holding pines and holly berries. The dinner hour was gaily enjoyed with the delights of the courses combined with the social gaiety making it exceptionally merry.

The bridge game progressed in the very attractive living room, where the small tables were placed. Prettily wrapped trophies, suggestive of Christmas, were presented to Mrs. J. Roush Burton and Miss Madge Dawson.

4-H RECREATION GROUP IS HOST AT PARTY HERE

Tri-county Christmas Dance To Be Held at Wilmington During Holidays

Fayette County's farm boys and girls today were still talking about the belated Thanksgiving party the 4-H Recreation Group held in the Sunnyside School auditorium.

It was one of the biggest and most hilarious in many a day and brought together about 70 4-H clubbers from three counties—Fayette, Clinton and Highland. Old fashioned square dances, the modern "round" dances, scottische, polka and waltz mixed the young people up and provided the gaiety of the evening.

An added note of interest were the records made by Pvt. James Wilson, who is now stationed at Ft. Meade, which were played for the gathering. They were obtained from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Wilson. Pvt. Wilson was a leader in the rural youth group in the county before he entered the army. The serving of refreshments brought the evening to a close.

The annual Tri-county 4-H Recreation Group's Christmas party is to be held at Wilmington during the holidays. The Clinton County group made the announcement of its plan to act as host this year but the date was left indefinite for the time being.

Year of War Has Unusual Effect on Farm Prices

RISE IS PACED BY LIVESTOCK; GRAINS CURBED

Reaction Differs Greatly From That in Last War When Uncontrolled

By FRANKLIN MULLIN
CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(P)—Agricultural price rises during the first full year of American participation in the war was reminiscent of what happened a quarter century ago but, at the same time, mute evidence of the different effect of two wars upon the farm.

The first anniversary of Pearl Harbor will find market prices of major farm commodities, which usually soar in wartime because of the immense needs, approximately 20 percent above a year ago. Some prices have risen only slightly; others sharply. Efforts to bridle wartime inflation have been partly responsible for the fact that prices are not higher.

Market observers studying price trends during the two wars say the significant thing is not the general rise, which was to be expected, but which commodities were most directly affected.

In the last war the price of grains responded most quickly. Wheat soared to above $3 a bushel, corn above $2, rye almost to $3. Prices of meat animals and other livestock products such as dairy products and eggs followed but more slowly.

In the past year the situation has been the reverse. Grains, the bulk of which are used to fatten and nourish livestock, have lagged while meat animals and livestock products have soared.

The reason, market men said, lies in the basic differences between the effects of the two wars upon the nation's agricultural economy. It also lies in the fact that government price stabilization control has had a very important market effect, with federal agencies both supporting prices and attempting to check their rise beyond certain limits. There was much less of this during the last war.

A quarter century ago the cry from an Allied Europe still intact and fighting on its own soil was for bread and grains with which to maintain its own agriculture. Now, with enemy occupation of the bulk of Europe, finished foods such as meat and processed dairy and poultry products are in most demand. As a result, vast surpluses of grain have been piled up in this country, at present burdening on prices but nevertheless vital if livestock output is to be expanded and Europe fed after the war.

Wheat sold around $1.17 a bushel here the day before Japanese bombs fell at Pearl Harbor. A month or so later the price was up about 20 cents but since then almost half of the gain has been lost. In 1917, wheat soared to $3.45 and when the government stopped trading in futures, the price was pegged at $2.17.

Corn prices rose from 75 cents to almost $1 in the weeks following Pearl Harbor but most of this gain has since been lost. A quarter century ago corn soared from $1.31 to $2.36 but by the end of the first year of American participation all the gain had been erased. Oats have lost all of a 10 cents upturn following Pearl Harbor.

On the other hand, hog prices rose almost $6 per hundred-weight the past year to a 22-year peak of $15.70 and still show a 37 percent advance over last December 7. Cattle have risen more than $3 to above $17 for choice beef, or slightly higher than prices prevailing in April, 1918. Twenty-five years ago hogs rose from $16 to almost $20 but lost more than half this advance in the first war year.

In the past year butter prices have advanced 32 percent to near 46 cents a pound for best grade in the Chicago wholesale market. Eggs have risen 18 percent to near 40 cents a dozen. These are ceilings.

At the end of the first year of American involvement in the last war butter was quoted around 42 cents and eggs around 35 cents, with butter two cents lower than in April, 1917, and eggs only about three cents higher.

Cotton prices have advanced more than a cent a pound from levels that prevailed a year ago. This compares with more than 11 cents 25 years ago.

Fred MacMurray in 'The Forest Rangers' at State Theatre Sunday

Forest fires have their uses, as Paulette Goddard and Fred MacMurray discover in Technicolor saga of the high timberlands, "The Forest Rangers," due Sunday at the State Theatre. Fred and Paulette, who share stardom with winsome Susan Hayward, find romance in the midst of blazing redwoods and billowing smoke. Incidentally, the exciting picture includes some of the most spectacular fire scenes ever caught by the movie camera. Thrills, excitement, romance and comedy are paramount in spectacular Technicolor movie of the high timberlands, "The Forest Rangers," due Sunday at the State Theatre. But audiences learn a number of things they never knew before, too. For instance, the scene above shows Fred MacMurray, who co-stars with Paulette Goddard and Susan Hayward, in an airplane high above a forest fire. One of the highlight thrills of the film, it shows Forest Service "smoke jumpers" parachuting with their equipment into the midst of a blaze.

EARLY PUPILS
CREATE PROBLEM
AT SCHOOL HERE

Cooperation of Parents in Starting Children Out
Later Is Sought

Boys and girls who come to school before the regular time set for opening are causing growing concern among city school officials now that winter and cold weather have come to stay.

They explain that a schedule has been arranged for opening the doors to the pupils and that in spite of repeated notices the youngsters keep coming ahead of time. Apparently, the pupils pay little heed to the schedule; so, school officials are hoping that parents will take a hand in trying to effect some sort of regulation.

The situation is the same all over the city, in the five elementary schools as well as the high school where the noon period has been shortened in an effort to correct the situation.

W. F. Rettig, principal of the high school, described conditions there and while they vary with the schools the difficulties follow the same general pattern.

At the high school pupils are permitted to enter the building at 8:40 A. M. and 12:40 P. M. after the noon lunch period which has been shortened by nine minutes in an effort to relieve congestion in the streets around the school before the bell rings to enter the building.

However, even with the shortened lunch period, there still are pupils who come back earlier than necessary and create a problem at the entrances to the building and the streets. In the morning, pupils begin to gather at the schools almost before dawn now that war time is in effect.

Prin. Rettig declared: "We would appreciate it very much if parents would cooperate and ask their children to remain at home in the morning and during the noon hour long enough to prevent them arriving at the school before time to enter the building."

For Better Health!

MEDICAL SCIENCE for many centuries has believed in the curative properties of minerals. Now, as never before, doctors are stressing the importance of Minerals. The cry is: MINERALS! MINERALS!

Drugless Health!

ORDINARY cathartics are habit-forming and never cure constipation. They force out the foods and digestive juices from your stomach and do not correct the cause of your trouble. BIO-MINERAL is not a physic and does not interfere with the natural foods in your stomach. It reaches down to the root—to the cause of your trouble, eliminating abnormal waste material, cleaning and purifying your intestines thoroughly in a natural, harmless and painless way.

Natural Minerals!

IF YOU SUFFER occasional constipation and other common stomach disorders, watch your elimination from your bowels after taking BIO-MINERAL. In 2 or 3 days, the waste, black as coal and hard as rock, may break from the walls of the colon, and you will see it in the stool. It is almost unbelievable that such waste could be in your intestines UNTIL YOU SEE IT!

AFTER 3 DAYS examine your urine. You may see small pieces of white stone, threads and crystal-like matter, which should not be in your system—POISONS—coming out, relieving you! These poisons, collecting there probably for years, like rust in an old iron pipe, were weakening your kidneys and ruining your digestive system.

TUNIS BATTLE RAGES AS LOSS OF 5 TRANSPORTS BY AMERICA IS REVEALED

by the British fleet, announcing merely:

"The Royal Navy is assisting in the provision of cover for the advance of our forces."

This could mean either that the fleet was unlimbering its big guns to rain destruction on the Axis defenders or sending carrier-based planes into the assault.

5 U. S. Transports Lost

Meanwhile, the navy in Washington announced the loss of five U. S. naval transports during the occupation of North Africa by American expeditionary forces.

The transports sunk were listed in the communiqué as the Tasker H. Bliss, the Hugh L. Scott, and the Edward Rutledge, which were sunk off Casablanca; the Joseph Hewes, sunk off Rabat and the Leedstown, sunk off Algiers.

The early morning communiqué said the next of kin of personnel killed, wounded or missing were being notified by telegram.

The names of the damaged vessels were not disclosed.

No mention was made of the number of men lost.

While the Allied land offensive flamed toward a climax, the London Admiralty announced that light British naval forces pounced on a Tunisia-bound Axis convoy in the Mediterranean and destroyed six of the enemy ships.

One British destroyer, the Quentin, was sunk later in a follow-up attack by Axis dive bombers and torpedo planes.

At the same time, it was officially disclosed that the British aircraft carrier Avenger, three destroyers and five lighter ships were among Allied naval losses incident to the landings in North Africa.

German Trick Fails

Frontline correspondents reported that the Germans dropped 50 parachute troops disguised as Arabs in an attempt to delay the Allied capture of Tebourba, vital rail junction 20 miles west of Tunis, where American troops played a major role in smashing a big Nazi counter-attack.

Allied troops quickly mopped up the masquerading enemy and occupied the town Saturday.

Allied headquarters said the Nazis suffered heavy losses in their unsuccessful counter blow at Tebourba, aimed at cutting off the Allied wedge now firmly driven between Bizerte and Tunis. The Berlin radio claimed the Germans recaptured Tebourba and destroyed 22 American tanks in the attack.

On the Libyan flank of the Allied vise, British headquarters again reported patrol clashes as Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th Army probed Axis defenses at El Agheila, where Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has entrenched in a narrow corridor between salt marshes and the sea.

A British communiqué said Allied heavy bombers rained new blows on Axis bases in Libya and Tunisia, attacking Tripoli, Bizerte and Gabes, and also sank a large south-bound tanker off Sicily.

On the Soviet front, Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's Red armies captured another strategic height in the Stalingrad sector—the second announced within 24 hours—and the southern arm of the Russian offensive reached out to within a few miles of Kotelnikovsky, 95 miles southwest of Stalingrad.

After two full weeks of tempestuous attack, the Red army's great winter drive was slowing somewhat in pace, but Soviet dispatches said the Russians were steadily closing the jaws of a trap around upwards of 300,000 Nazis in the Don-Volga corridor.

A communiqué said more than 3,800 Axis troops were killed on the battlefields yesterday.

Izvestia, government newspaper, reported from the front that Germans were abandoning some of their mechanized equipment in the snowdrifts as they retreated.

Pravda, Communist party organ, described captives taken in the Rzhnev sector as being still clad in their summer uniforms with only earmuffs to protect them from the cold.

Red Star reported that white-robed Russian ski troops, armed with tommy guns and riding atop tanks from village to village, met an enemy company and "awful destruction followed with the whole German company being ground in the snow beneath the tanks while the ski troops ravaged the rest of its ranks with tommy gunfire."
